The Parties undertake not to publish, disclose or make available by other means any confidential information to third parties either directly or indirectly during or following the expiry of the Agreement, unless such is expressly permitted or is required by law. The provisions of this article do not apply to information of which the receiving party can demonstrate that it (I) pertains or will in the future pertain to the public domain, other than due to infringement of a duty to confidentiality; or (II) was in the possession of the receiving party without limitation in respect of disclosure prior to this information having been received from the disclosing party; or (III) has been received from a third party which acquired the information lawfully and which is not obliged to limitation of the disclosure thereof; or (IV) has been developed without access to the confidential information. The Client is responsible for the permission of its users to be able to use these details. The Client is aware that some vehicle characteristics (such as opening/closing, immobiliser) also change when use is made of the WeGo Box.

2. Certain functionalities are dependant on the presence of a GPS signal. This may include, for example, the determination of the vehicle’s precise location. This GPS signal falls outside WeGo’s control, and therefore outside WeGo’s scope.

3. Certain functionalities are dependant on the presence of a GPRS / UMTS signal. The presence of this signal (“coverage”) is required in order for the WeGo solution to function properly. This GPRS / UMTS signal is beyond WeGo’s control, and therefore beyond WeGo’s scope.

4. WeGo reserves the right to make changes to the appearance of the WeGo service and the manner in which the location details are displayed.

5. WeGo will provide the Client with SIM cards for each WeGo Box for which the Client has a user licence in relation to the WeGo service. 2. Should the situation of force majeure as a result of which a Party cannot meet its obligations extend beyond 30 calendar days, each Party is entitled to terminate the Agreement in writing, without obligation as to the consequences thereof or having to pay any compensation in relation thereto.

3. Should, on commencement of the situation of force majeure, WeGo have partially met its obligations, or be capable of only meeting some of its

The Client does not at any time acquire rights, ownership or any interest in these Intellectual Property rights on the basis of any use that the Client may make thereof under the Agreement.

2. The Client: (I) will neither cause nor allow that a third party damage WeGo’s Intellectual Property rights in any way or endanger these; (II) will indemnify WeGo against damage suffered by WeGo as a consequence of any use by the Client or user of WeGo’s Intellectual Property rights other than in accordance with the Agreement, notwithstanding all of WeGo’s other rights; (III) will not change the packaging or labelling of the products as supplied by WeGo in any way whatsoever, unless such changes have first been approved by WeGo in writing; (IV) will not change, remove or tamper with the trademarks in any way whatsoever, nor introduce or add another name, trademark, logo, design or symbol to a Product or the packaging thereof, unless this has been approved by WeGo in writing; (V) will not use Trademarks with the intention of thereby damaging WeGo’s character, validity or goodwill.

3. Should the Client directly or indirectly dispute WeGo’s ownership of the Intellectual Property rights at any time, or should the Client act in a manner which damages WeGo’s rights to the WeGo service, the WeGo website, the WeGo Platform or the Products or reduces the value of the Intellectual Property rights vested therein, WeGo is entitled to terminate the Agreement with immediate effect.

XIV. FINAL PROVISIONS

1. Notwithstanding these WeGo General Terms and Conditions, the rights of the parties under the Agreement do not affect any other rights or legal remedies at the disposal of the parties and the failure of any party to exercise any right under the Agreement, or the tardy exercise of such right, may not be interpreted by any party as the waiver of such right under the Agreement.

2. The unlawfulness, nullity or impracticability of any provision of the Agreement is of no influence on the lawfulness, validity or practicability of the remainder of the article or section containing the relevant provision, or of any other provision in the Agreement. Should the rest of the provision remain unaffected, the parties will do all within reason to reach agreement within a reasonable period on lawful and reasonable changes to the Agreement which may be required in order to achieve to the greatest possible extent the same effect as that which would be achieved through the article or section of article concerned.

3. The Client will refrain from behaviour which, in WeGo's opinion, is damaging, or which may in the future be damaging to WeGo's commercial activities or the marketing of WeGo's Products.
